ROCKY MOUNT'N HOUSE

The main street is building up again. The Witton-McDermott building is well under way; the basement is being done by W. Symonds, our Pioneer dryman. The combined stores will be 120 feet frontage by 70 feet in depth; the contract is let to E. B. Crowder.

On the other side of the street Tong Kee is putting up a first class restaurant, 48x30. Contractors are Wayman and Harju. A carload of brick has arrived from Redcliffe.

Mr. Van Carlson, accountant of our local bank, spent the 24th with friends and relatives at Wetaskiwin.

A. McQuire has quit making ties. He can earn more money trapping bear. He just brought in two big hides, and has returned for more.

Our local tennis court is crowded these fine days. The Club has worked hard to get the cinders down in good shape and rolled.

MacLaren & Son expect to put up a first class building in the near future.

I. N. Cony, of the Farmers' Supply store, has had to lease a warehouse to keep his flour in until his new building is completed. This man has made wonderful strides since he opened his out-rate store.

Mrs. A. Poulton will receive callers on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. H. Leggett will receive on Monday afternoons.

Our new preacher, Mr. H. Lennox, drives his sermons right home every Sunday night. He is using the Pastime Theatre pro tem. The church will be completed about June 15th. The Loyal Orange Lodge will assist and put the finishing touches on the basement around that date.

Rain is falling quite frequently. A good crop is assured for this district anyway.

Any persons seeking marriage quickly come to Rocky Mt. House (with or without).

Our local constable, Ben Shantz, is very busy these days with offenders of the Motor Vehicle Act. His wife, Mrs. A. Shantz, is progressing very well in Red Deer hospital.

Mrs. D. Ardell and children have returned from California.

RIDGEWOOD NEWS

Owing to the inclement weather, the Ridgewood Athletic Club found it necessary to postpone their wrestling and boxing tournament scheduled for Friday last, the date now chosen being this coming Friday, June 8th. The public are cordially invited to the Community Hall for this event, which will consist of wrestling, boxing, etc., followed by a dance. Benny Reeves, Charlie Ross, Jack Urquhart and several others have entered for the wrestling contests, and there are several good men entered for the boxing events. Major Lister, Red Deer, will address the boys on athletic work. There will be a small admission charge of 50c. for gentlemen, and the ladies are kindly asked to provide lunch.

Haliburton—Mitchell

The First Baptist Church was the scene of a pretty wedding at 7.30 p.m., Victoria Day, when Mabel V. Mitchell and Leroy L. Haliburton, both of Edmonton, were united in marriage by the Rev. G. A. Clarke.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her brother, Fred J. Mitchell, of Edmonton, to the strains of the wedding march played by the organist. She wore a white satin gown trimmed with lace and a bridal veil and carried a bouquet of roses. The bridal veil was carried by little Miss Helen Latornell, of Killam, who was dressed in simple white trimmed with blue.

Miss Clara Mitchell, of Vegreville, attended her sister. Her dress was of sand canton crepe, trimmed with blue, with lace hat to match. She carried a bouquet of carnations. C. W. Hanna, of Edmonton, attended the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the happy couple, immediate relatives and friends being the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Haliburton left on the midnight train for Banff and Lake Louise, where they will spend their honeymoon.—Vegreville Observer.

HAVE YOU A SCREW LOOSE?

A man who has passed his fiftieth milestone said to me: "I have no home, no wife, and no children, because I have never been in a position to marry. Everything I have made has slipped away from me, and I can't tell you how, for I have never dissipated, and have never been a gambler or a drinker. I don't waste or squander it in self-indulgence, but somehow or other I never could hold on to a dollar very long. Whenever by some chance I had some money on hand a smooth promoter with a plausible scheme would come along and get it away from me, or I played the market and lost it. I guess there must have been a screw loose in my management of myself and my affairs, and now it's too late to start over again."

The trouble with this man is common to thousands of men who have good ability and good intentions. They are ambitious and work hard, yet find themselves late in life, homeless and almost destitute, because they lack judgment, thrift and system. These are three great essentials of success, and the man who doesn't cultivate them certainly has a screw loose.

ANOTHER FIRE AT RIMBEY

Rimbey, Alta., June 5.—Approximately $3,000 damage was caused by a fire of unknown origin which Sunday originated in the hay loft, but destroyed the Rimbey livery barn office and contents. The blaze prompt action on the part of the voluntary fire brigade and favorable winds prevented it from spreading to adjacent buildings. By placing the fire under prompt control it was also possible to prevent the loss of any stock.

The building was owned by Stark Webb, and was partially covered by insurance. This is the fifth bad fire in Rimbey within the last year.

G.W.V.A. EXCURSION TO THE COAST

The G.W.V.A. Encampment Week at Vancouver, a week of pleasure which is being arranged for all returned men, is finding favour with all returned men in the Province of Alberta. Hundreds of veterans will take advantage of this cheap trip to the Coast.

The Association has secured a one-cent a mile rate with the railways, and tickets at this rate may be obtained from the railways providing the bearer is in possession of an identification certificate from Dominion Headquarters, G.W.V.A., which can only be obtained through the Local Branch of the G.W.V.A. These tickets can only be obtained if purchased on June 28th, 29th, 30th, July 1st or July 2nd, and holders must return from Vancouver on or before July 15th.

A varied programme of sports is arranged for the benefit of the Reunion of returned men, and tent accommodation available at a limited cost.

The Dominion Convention of the G. W.V.A. will convene on July 3rd, and important business for the future of the Association will be dealt with.

W. E. Freeman, the Local Secretary of the G.W.V.A., will be pleased to furnish all particulars to returned men.

A. P. P. CASES

The local A. P. P. made a big haul, Saturday, when a large still, one of the biggest yet found, was discovered on the premises of Pat McGuire, together with 60 gallons of moonshine. Scotch labels, rye labels, gold seal and other labels were also found. Pat denies being in the trade some good Irish whisky. He pleaded guilty and was fined the usual $200 and costs, or six months.

On June 3rd the police at Wetaskiwin were notified by phone that Mrs. Andrew Gallas, of Millet, had been attacked by two men and her throat cut. They went to Millet at once, and found Mrs. Gallas in a very serious condition. There was a very bad gash in her throat, and her tongue was bitten through. Her windpipe was not severed, but she was unconscious from loss of blood.

Her husband and the priest had found her on their return from town early mass, and she had apparently tried to tell them that two men had attacked her.

No strangers have been seen in that locality but the police are investigating further. The doctor expects Mrs. Gallas to recover, and she will then be questioned further.

OPTOMETRISTS RE-ELECT H. J. SNELL

The Optometrists of Alberta have just completed their third annual convention, held at Edmonton in the Macdonald Hotel. The convention decided to create an endowment fund for the purpose of eventually establishing a faculty of optometry at the University of Alberta, and the association will tax itself a percentage of its dues for that purpose.

H. J. Snell, of Red Deer, was re-elected President for the ensuing year, and H. G. Willis, of Edmonton, Secretary.

"TRIFLING WOMEN," DRAMATIC PHOTOPLAY

Rex Ingram's claim to film immortality is justified again in his remarkable new production "Trifling Women," which comes on Friday to the Rex Theatre. It is the latest achievement of the skilful director, whose name has become synonymous with the best in filmdom, and a guarantee of exceptional screen merit. It equals and, in some particulars, surpasses his earlier efforts, and should win a high place among the best of the season's photoplays.

The brilliant director of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," "The Prisoner of Zenda" and other big Metro pictures, is himself both author and adaptor of his latest success.

APPRECIATION

Mr. H. J. Snell,

Dear Mr. Snell:—

Will you kindly convey to the Rotary Club my thanks for the services rendered by those of your members who were able to attend the Sports Day of the High and Public Schools? I am sure the boys appreciated the interest shown in their activities, and know that this is one of the sure ways for men to get an influence over these boys. As for the men of the staff, we welcome your assistance in any way in which you see you can help us, and at any time.

Sincerely yours,
C. D. LOOKER.

RED DEER AT PONOKA

In another Central Alberta League game, played in Ponoka, Monday, June 4th, the Red Deer team lost their second game in the league by the narrow margin of 1 run in a 3-2 fixture. The game was lost to Red Deer in the 6th, during which, with 3 on bases, Umpire Bush called Johnson's hit over the first baseman's head a foul ball, although it appeared to be well inside the sack. This hit was not allowed, and George, in trying to score the tieing run two minutes later, was thrown out at home plate.

Red Deer's first run came in the first frame, when Dancocks hit safely, stole second, advanced to 3rd on a passed ball, and came home on a similar play.

The second run for the local boys came in the 5th, when Osterlund hit safely, and later came in on George's timely bingle.

In the 8th inning Red Deer had a chance to win the game when Dancocks again hit safely, stole second, went to third on Marks' safe hit, but was nipped at the plate trying to get home by Hambly. In this inning also Marks stole second, was advanced by Nelson's safe hit, but was caught out at home plate by Hambly's peg from Hedley. Malcolm got a walk as the fifth man up, advancing Nelson and Grier, but the side was then retired, with Day flew out to V. Longman in centre field.

Ponoka's 3 runs came in the 1st, 3rd and 6th frames. In the first MacDonald, second man up, hit safely, stole second, and scored on Hedley's 2-bagger. In the third, MacDonald again repeated and scored on Hambley's hot single. This inning saw the only double play of the game, when Day grabbed Jensen's hot grounder, slipped the pill to Malcolm to force Hambly out at second in time to beat Jensen at first.

Ponoka's winning run came in the 6th, when Jensen got a life on Osterlund's fielding error, but went out at 2nd on a fielder's choice, which let Burres on first, who stole second and romped home on Wakelyn's timely double.

Score by innings—
Red Deer 1 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 0—2
Ponoka 1 0 1 0 0 1 0 0 0—3

Struck out—by Osterlund, 8; by Jensen, 8. 2-base hits, Nelson, Hedley, Wakelyn. Double play, Day to Malcolm to George. Left on bases, Red Deer 7, Ponoka 7. Stolen bases, Red Deer 6, Ponoka 3.

Umpire, Dan Bush.
Time of game, 1.45.
Attendance, 300.

Congratulations should also be extended to her teacher, Mrs. Nairn, to whom a great part of the credit is due.

The monthly meeting of the Penhold School Board was held in Stewart Bros. office on Monday evening. Besides the full Board, there were present R. Dixon and J. F. Farrar, representing Horn Hill S. D. and Antler Hill S. D. respectively. After the usual business, Messrs. Dixon and Farrar brought before the meeting their Boards' objection to paying last fall term's tuition fees for Grade IX. to Penhold S.D. The merits of the question were discussed, and it was decided to ask the chief school inspector to act as arbitrator.

The Board then took up the question with Messrs. Dixon and Farrar whether their school would teach Grade IX. this coming term. No definite statements were able to be given, so a special meeting of the Penhold School Board, with representatives from the outside school districts, was called for May 18th at 3.30 p.m. The question of advisability of continuing or closing the upper room was entered into, and the Secretary was asked to bring to the special meeting figures on cost of operating the one and the two-room school, when this question would again be brought up, and if necessary a special ratepayers' meeting called. Meeting closed at 1.45 Tuesday morning.

THE ROTARY CLUB

Rev. Father McMillan was the guest of the Rotary Club on Friday last at their noon luncheon in Knox Church school room, and gave a very interesting address on "Life in the Hebrides."

The reverend gentleman regretted that he could not speak in the beautiful language he had been accustomed to use in speaking to his people, namely, the Gaelic tongue, as he loved it, and thought it the most beautiful in the world. He spoke of the number of islands, some population, their religion, their schools, their mode of living, houses, diet and fuel. He spoke of their industries, their farming operations, the crofters, the festivals, the cloth they make, their help. He spoke of the old times and the new, and he enlarged on the reasons for emigration. He said they were of Viking descent. Some of the sections were all Protestant; others all Catholic, while other districts were half and half, but they all lived happily together and never found fault with their neighbor's religion, any more than they did in other matters. They all lived together like brother and sister, absolutely one big family. Their schools educated the children up to university work. Most of the houses were built of stone and thatched. Their fuel was peat, which they cut from bog land, dried and piled in heaps to dry and harden. They had vegetables such as potatoes, and beef, mutton, fish and other plain articles of food. A crofter may have from 1 to 3 horses and from 1 to 10 cows. They could not afford to keep the whole family at home as a rule. If there was more than one boy in a family, he usually went out to work. They used a great deal of sea weed for fertilizing the land, and the men would carry it up from the sea on their backs. Without this the land would not be productive. Sea weed is also burned, and the ash used to make iodine. This ash was very valuable, but the poor crofter only got a very small pittance for the dry sea weed. He spoke of the women's ability to make their own clothes. They can card and spin and weave and make excellent goods. The reason for emigrating, said the speaker, was that the future looked so gloomy. The men and women had to leave home to make a living, and they hope to make a home for themselves in this great country. Things are not moving as they would like, but the spirit of hospitality shown them they felt grateful for. They were a great way from home, and they felt sometimes the pull on their heart strings for the great ocean for which they all had a great love.

The other guests of the day were Rev. Father Vokes, who was the guest of H. J. Snell, and Sheriff Ed. Hogg, who was the guest of Fred Turnbull.

DUCKS NESTING IN TREES

Teddy Plumb had a story Saturday that the ducks were building nests in the trees, and he had seen a duck building its nest there. This, he contended, was a sure sign of a very wet season. Instinct, he said, told the duck not to nest on the edge of lake, river, creek or slough, as the water would be likely to float the nest, so they build high in the tree. A farmer south of the city also informed The News that he saw a duck with a nest in a tree and he could lead us to it. As a matter of fact there is a species of duck that always nests in a tree, and it is possible that this a number of this species is visiting this district at this time.

THE KING'S BIRTHDAY

Very Quietly Celebrated in Red Deer

Never was a public holiday celebrated more quietly than the King's birthday this year, in Red Deer.

On Sunday, the 78th Battery, C. F. A., under command of Major R. C. Lister, paraded to St. Luke's Church in the morning. There were about nineteen officers and men in attendance, including Lieutenants Weston, Colpitts and Smith; B. S. M. Muir and B. Q. M. S. Bearchell. Owing to the steady rain, it was impossible for many of the men from the country to get in to the parade. The Rev. G. McComas preached an eloquent sermon, and appropriate hymns were selected for the occasion, and the National Anthem was sung. There was a large choir in attendance.

The men presented a very creditable and soldierlike appearance, and were not in the least daunted by the fragrant showers.

On Monday a number of the teachers took a hike into the country and held a jolly picnic. Among those present were Miss Etta Smith, Miss McDuff, Miss Gertrude Smith, Miss Irving, Miss McClellan, Miss Doris Pyke, Rev. Mr. Olsen, S. Jones and C. McCuaig.

In the evening the Rex Theatre drew a good house to view that excellent picture, "The Isle of Lost Ships."

The baseball boys went to Ponoka and played their game with the club of that town.

We understand the sports at Eckville were called off, owing to the roads being impassable from recent rains.

BURNT LAKE

May 31st, 1923.

A delightful concert was given by the pupils of the Burnt Lake school at the Sylvan Lake hall on May 18th. The whole programme went through without a hitch. Indeed, everyone present was more than surprised at the talent displayed by these youngsters, the youngest of them being only six years old. Great credit was reflected on their able teacher, Mrs. R. A. Plummer, who at all times is heart and soul in her work.

The Maypole drill in itself was beautiful and well performed, and brought round after round of applause from a hall packed to its limit. The children were dressed in green crepe dresses, and green bandows of the same material, trimmed with pink chrysanthemums and green streamers. This, with the graceful movements of the children, set off by the delicate effects of the colored foot lights, and the soft and sweet music played by Miss Juliana Dellaire, who was the accompanist for the evening, was a feature long to be remembered. The school was honored by the presence of Inspector A. R. Gibson, M.A., who acted as chairman, and who at the same time kept the house in smiling order with his witty remarks.

The programme was as follows:
Remarks by Inspector Gibson.
Piano solo by Miss Blanche Dellaire.
Dominion Hymn by school children.
Song, Mr. Frank Dellaire, "I was married up in the air." Encored.
Dialogue, "The Noon Hour," by the school.
Recitation, "Home, Sweet Home," by Miss Curtis and Miss Dellaire.
Dialogue, "The Parent Teachers." Cast, Miss Brown, the teacher; Dora Bjelke, Mrs. Green, Mrs. Hagerman, Gretchen Anquetil, Mrs. Muggins, Anquetil, Walter Norby, Miss Green, Miss Millican, Olga Seivinson.
Song, "Forget-me-nots," by Gretchen Anquetil and Ruth Bjelke.

The evening ended by a presentation of a diploma to Mrs. Plummer, as teacher of Burnt Lake school, whose district was awarded same by the Department of Agriculture for the best exhibit at the School Fair held at Sylvan Lake on September 6th, 1923.

This award is also another mark of Mrs. Plummer's ability and tuition. The diploma was handed to Mrs. Plummer by Inspector Gibson, who congratulated her on her success, and hoped that the school would be in the line of winners at the next fair.

This ended the programme, after which a dainty supper was served, and dancing was indulged in until daylight appeared.

The whole thing was a complete success, and $40 was the neat little sum added towards the the next school fair, for which cause the concert was given.

Misses Blanche and Juliana Dellaire and Miss Curtis, pupils of the Convent school, gave their assistance for the f. ir. These three pupils were given great applause and encored on every occasion.

Here and There

Vancouver as a grain port has gone over the top and is assured of achieving the 16,000,000 bushel objective set for the 1922-1923 crop year, according to statistics issued at the Vancouver Merchants Exchange.

A Canadian Pacific Railway train, over half a mile long, left Oshawa for New York recently. The train was composed of 52 flat cars, each carrying from four to six automobiles, and was the first solid train to leave Oshawa for New York.

Making the heaviest loading since the big crop year of 1915, grain loaded on the western lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway from September 1st, 1922, to March 7th, 1923, inclusive, totalled 118,565 cars. This is 16,000 more cars than were loaded during the corresponding season of last year.

While in mid Pacific, the wireless operator of the Canadian Pacific Steamship "Empress of Russia" was in touch with the Leafield wireless station in England, and received a number of news items. "The ether waves were evidently carried across the North Pole, as we were on the other side of the world," said Captain A. J. Hosken, commander of the liner.

An Owen Sound deputation which recently interviewed Canadian Pacific Railway officials in Toronto, urged the building of a line from Owen Sound, through Meaford and on to Collingwood and then on to a point on the Sudbury line near Coldwater. The officials are reported to have been interested by the suggestions made by the delegation.

Captain A. J. Hosken, R.N.R., of the Canadian Pacific Steamer "Empress of Russia," has been awarded the Medaille d'Honneur de Sauvetage de première classe by the French Government, for the part taken by him as commander of the liner "Montcalm" in saving the crew of the French steamer "Hsin Tien", off the China coast.

There is a gold rush on to Rouyn township, in northern Quebec, to Labrador and now to the Soo district. In fact, the whole northern district has immense areas of rock bearing more or less gold, and the question is whether the quantity is large enough to make a real mine. Gold mining will be one of Canada's greatest industries twenty-five years from now.—"Mail & Empire."

Still another case of children travelling alone. Elmer Lann, five years old, and Roland Callwell, seven years old, both living on St. Denis street, Montreal, were missed by their parents who did not hear of them after their disappearance until notified by Canadian Pacific Railway officials that the children were in Quebec city, to which place they had begged a ride.

The initial shipment of cattle since the Embargo removal was recently inspected by the Hon. W. P. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, in the C. P. R. stock yards, Montreal. They were stall-fed Ontario cattle from along the Canadian Pacific west of Toronto, with the exception of one car load of Western cattle, the latter being in the best condition despite the fact that they had had a 28 hours run from North Bay. The minister expressed the opinion that the cattle being shipped were of the first quality.

It has remained for the Canadian Pacific experimental farm at Strathmore to demonstrate beyond the possible shadow of doubt that the inexpensive trench silo system of providing winter fodder for cattle is, under favorable conditions, quite equal to the costly structures which have in the past been utilized and that the silage is in every sense excellent. This was proved to the satisfaction of a large party of agricultural and business men, who recently visited Strathmore as the guests of the Canadian Pacific Department of Natural Resources in

"Train from the west much late?" asked a guest.

"Nope!" replied the landlord of the Petuna tavern. "We're expecting it every hour now."

ALL FIELD SEEDS TO BE OFFICIALLY GRADED

The Seed Control Act, administered by the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, is undergoing amendment at the present session of Parliament. The amending Bill, after receiving the approval of the Agricultural Committee, has had its second reading in the House of Commons. The original Act provides for the compulsory grading only of timothy, alsike, red clover, and alfalfa. The grades of these seeds recognized are "Extra No. 1," "No. 1," "No. 2," "No. 3," and "Rejected." The amended act will extend compulsory grading to all kinds of grass and clover seed, flax, sorghum, millet, wheat, oats, barley, rye, corn, buckwheat, sunflower, field peas, field beans, and vetches. Provision is made for including seeds of other kinds of farm crops. The Bill also provides for the optional grading for commerce of field roots and garden vegetable seeds. Farmers selling feed on their own premises will not be required to grade seed grain. Grass seed and clover seed, however, sold from the farm must have been officially tested and graded on the basis of a control sample.

CO-OPERATION

What you see in a comb of honey is a pound of perfect sweetness encased in a wax structure that is a triumph of architectural engineering.

You pay twenty-five or thirty cents for this take it home, spread it on your bread to tickle your palate and help fill your physical fuel-bin, and—

What you don't see in this comb of honey is a little army of bees working harder than Trojans ever worked, sucking the ambrosia from thousands of clover blossoms.

Your pound of honey contains 7,000 grains of sugar. Each clover blossom provides about one-eighth of a grain, so this pound represents the sweet fruitage of 56,000 clover heads.

But the clover head is composed of about sixty florets or flower tubes. To extract the hidden sweet the bee must probe each of these. This means some sixty separate operations on each flower.

If one bee contracted to gather a pound of honey, that bee would have to explore 3,360,000 of these tinf tubes to secure the material. Allowing five seconds for each exploration and twelve hours to a day, it would take this bee some four hundred days to produce a pound.

And this would represent only the gathering of the honey, not the time required for building the wax-case and storing the sweet stuff.

But there never yet was a hive with just one bee to each comb.

Nature commands pooled effort.

Hundreds of bees to each comb makes a comparatively quick and easy operation of what would be an impossible task for one bee working alone.

So what we do not see in the comb of honey is the greatest of lessons in one of the greatest of success-makers —Co-operation.

On every side Nature flaunts this lesson in man's face.

The seed itself is nothing.

Sun, soil and moisture must co-operate with the latent germ in order to produce plant life.

The most solid rock is only co-operating atoms.

The strongest man is weak alone. Only by working with others or winning others to work with him can he achieve worthwhile results.

The biggest business is bound for failure if it workers do not co-operate.

It is a machine whose parts do not work together. It may run for a while on its own momentum, but it is headed for the dump-heap.

To co-operate is to join forces and something more. It is to join hearts as well as hands, and slip a little soul in the bargain.

Not to co-operate is to court loneliness, life-rust and loss.

The a.B.c. of success is this—Be a Bee!

CO-OPERATE.

WE'RE ALL WRONG!

Instead of Getting Thin, She Says, Be a Woman and Keep Men Guessing

New York, May 25.—Now that the Flapper 34 has replaced the Perfect 36, only to find the Subdeb 32 threatening its newly won laurels, along comes a woman, a princess forsooth, and warns American women they are all on the wrong track.

Princess Athena Pieredis, who says she's a descendant of Cleopatra, views us with consternation. Born in Egypt, she was trained in the ways of oriental wisdom and feminine charm. She has just returned to America after a visit to her native country.

"What has made the broomstick the model for the modern American woman's figure?" she asks. "No artist ever found his inspiration in such a woman. Every famous piece of sculpture shows a woman who is a woman—who looks as if she might be the mother of strong, healthy children.

"Does the thin woman of today, with no figure, and no carriage, who starves herself to death and worries herself with exercises, think she is attractive to men?"

"Be a Woman!"

The princess believes she is not. To charm a man one must not suggest an adolescent youth or an immature school girl, but a woman, she maintains.

"Then," the Egyptian oracle continues, "she must make herself mysterious. The American woman takes no trouble to do that. She throws all her cards on the table at once, and has nothing up her sleeve with which to bring in the final tricks. She must keep a man worrying—and fearful lest he will lose her, or incur her displeasure. She must never give him the feeling that he understands her, but must make him desire that above all things.

"She must make him feel she is unattainable, no matter how anxious she is to try a new name on her visiting cards. No man wants what he thinks he can have.

"Let Him Suffer!"

"She must make him suffer frequently. Then she is able to make the joy she affords more effective because of the contrast."

Though the princess believes women are mentally superior to men, she says no knowing woman will ever give a man any intimation of the cerebration of which she is capable.

"And never wound a man's pet vanity," she advises. "It takes too long to heal the laceration."

One bit of consolation she readily grants us.

"The American woman has learned to keep her youth better than any woman in the world. When she recaptures the charm she has lost in her mad dash for independence she will be the greatest wonder of the modern world."

PRINCETON CADET GETS TOP PRICE AT CATTLE SALE

The top price paid at the summer cattle sale at the Victoria pavilion, Calgary, on Thursday, was for H. R. H. the Prince of Wales' Shorthorn bull, Princeton Cadet, which earlier on in the day had been awarded the championship ribbon in its class. The bidding for this magnificent progeny of Climsland Brooklands and Belladrum Flower, both imported animals, was animated, although the very inclement weather militated greatly against a large number of stockmen and others being able to attend the sale who otherwise would have been present. The Pekisko ranch contribution was eventually secured by A. M Rawlinson of Calgary, for $400.

Princeton Corrector, also from the Prince of Wales' ranch, did not meet with anything like the same amount of spirited bidding, being knocked down to William Hudson, of Kathryn, for $100.

Hamilton Brothers, of Innisfail, secured $160 for King Friar, the buyers being J. Fisher Williams and Company, of Acme.

Other Top Prices

Other top prices were $130 for Red Keith, a Shorthorn female, bred by A. W. Latimer, Bowden, and sold to James Williams, Calgary; $165 for Iron Spring Gay Lad, a Hereford bull from the ranch of Remick and Son, Alliance, bought by M. McLennan, of Cochrane; $130 for Last Chance II, also purchased from Remicks by the same buyer; $150 for Emperor Perfection II, bred by D. W. Trotter, of Shepard, sold to T. C. Milnes, Limited, Claresholm; $220 for David Harum, sold by Wm. A. Alston, Knee Hill Valley to the Ontata Farms, Limited, Taber; $210 for Glen Dale, bred by John Wilson, Innisfail, the buyer being M. McLennan, Cochrane; $210 for Garfield II, one of G. E. and W. A. Hunter's Herefords, which was secured by E. J. Thorne, of Aldersyde.

The total average for 45 bulls was $90.56, and that for 6 females, $70. In the various classes the average was as follows: Shorthorn females, 3, $91.66; Shorthorn bulls, 18, $88.39; Aberdeen Angus females, 1, $50; Aberdeen Angus bulls, 7, $62.14; Hereford females, 2, $47.50; Hereford bulls, 18, $106.95; Holstein bulls, 2, $67.50.

DESPERADO WHO MURDERED TWO AT NORTH BAY MEETS HIS FATE

Leo Rogers, Escaped Bad Man, Tracked to Bush and Was Fatally Shot as He Emerged

North Bay, May 31.—Leo Rogers, fugitive man killer, was shot and killed by a posse last night. The escaped desperado emerged from the bush about eight miles from Nipissing late in the afternoon long enough to be brought down by a bullet from a member of Inspector Storey's party, which, with several other groups, had been hunting Rogers since his escape from a crowded court room with a flourish of a cardboard pistol.

His body is being brought to North Bay. A telephone message to this effect was received at 8 o'clock last night by Chief of Police Moreby.

All parties of provincial police are being recalled, as the famous chase is ended.

The killing of Rogers came as the climax to one of the most dramatic manhunts this territory has ever experienced.

"Bad Leo" brought down two of his pursuers and wounded another before he himself was dropped by a bullet. He shot Detective Fred Lefebvre shortly after his sensational escape and yesterday sent a bullet through the heart of Sergeant John Urquhart, of the provincial police, a member of a party that surprised the gun man in his father's house.

The Second Murder

North Bay, Ont., May 31.—Sergt. Urquhart, with Constables Crowe, Simpson and Delves, entered the Rogers' house about 3 o'clock Wednesday morning. With Urquhart leading, they proceeded up the stairs. Just as the sergeant reached the top the figure of Leo Rogers loomed up on the landing in the light of the police searchlights. At the same instant Rogers opened fire and at the first shot Urquhart fell back dead, shot through the chest.

The other police were met by a rain of bullets, Rogers apparently firing from automatics in both hands. They were forced to take cover. Reinforcements were secured and the house again surrounded.

Jumps From Window

Rogers escaped from the house by jumping out of the window. The Rogers' home stands at the east end of town, not two miles from where Constables Lefebvre and McGovern were shot by Rogers. It is a moderate sized brick house with a garage entrance to the east.

Washing Hands in Lake

Rogers was shot by Inspector Storey as the desperado was washing his hands in a lake near Nipissing.

Rogers was seen rowing down the lake in a small boat by Allan Johnston, a farmer, who called the constable. It was reported Rogers was caught unawares and had no opportunity to answer Inspector Storey's fire.

He fell to the ground and members of the inspector's party, which numbered eleven, were reported to have sent bullet after bullet into the body of the man who had killed two of their comrades.

Rogers' body was brought here last night along with that of Sergeant Urquhart. The desperado's mother was reported to be in a serious condition, after hearing of her son's death.

Hunted For Two Weeks

Rogers had been hunted for two weeks. He was on trial for a minor offence here and flashed his paper pistol in court and made his getaway. He had not gone far before he telephoned police that he was on the outskirts of a village. A posse was rushed to the spot, where the desperado opened fire on his pursuers, killing Detective Lefebvre and wounding another policeman. As he fled across an open space, with bullets sputtering about him, he shouted back that he would "get" Chief Moreby and a magistrate who had convicted him seven years ago. That threat failed.

Rogers Took to the Woods

Rogers took to the woods, returning the fire of his pursuers, and disappeared. Several times it was thought capture of the former convict was near, but each time he threw his pursuers off the track and went back into the woods. Rewards totalling $1,500 had been offered for him, dead or alive.

Before dawn yesterday, Sergeant Urquhart, with three constables, trailed Rogers to the home of his aged father in a little cabin near here. They had seen him, ragged and dirty, sneak across a clearing into the house. They stole up to the shack, up a rickety staircase and knocked on a door. A shower of bullets was the response. Sergeant Urquhart dropped and Rogers escaped again.

He ran the gauntlet of guards, turning only to send bullets at them. He disappeared in the bush, and after several hours was seen gliding along the waters of the lake.

How They Got Him

Johnson, when he saw the boat, was so sure its occupant was Rogers that he travelled several miles to notify the authorities. His story rang so true that Inspector Moore sent his entire force after the killer. Inspector Storey's party travelled by auto, while another party headed down the lake in a motor boat. It was about 6 o'clock when Inspector Storey's party neared Johnson's farm and hid themselves behind trees and clumps of bushes. Stealthily they crept near or their victim until, with field glasses, they could discern his features.

Rogers had reached his boat, and was tinkering with its tiny engine. Several times he dipped his hands into the water to wash off blood that dripped from his smeared face.

Sure of their prey, members of the posse raised a mighty yell and opened fire. "Bad Leo" looked up startled, grasped his rifle and raised it to his shoulder as the bullets fell about him, but crumpled before he could pull the trigger.

When the news that Rogers had been shot, and that his body would be brought here last night, reached North Bay, hundreds of citizens crowded about the dock at which the boat bearing his body landed. As the motor boat arrived, they rushed the pier, anxious to get a glimpse of the body of the man who had eluded the law for two weeks. They were held back by the police.

ANNUAL AGRICULTURAL STATISTICS OF CANADA 1923

Ottawa, May 23, 1923.—The Dominion Bureau of Statistics announces the completion of its arrangements for collection next month of the annual agricultural statistics of Canada. Following plans begun five years ago in co-operation with the Provincial Governments, the returns are collected annually by means of a simple schedule, calling for a statement of the areas sown to field crops and of the number of farm animals alive on June 15. When completed they are compiled into totals by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, and the areas, as finally estimated, form the basis for the estimation after harvest of the yields of field crops.

In all save three of the provinces, viz., Prince Edward Island, Quebec and British Columbia, the cards will be distributed next month, as in previous years, through the agency of the rural schools. In British Columbia the cards are mailed direct to farmers. This year, for the first time, the plan of mailing direct will also be applied to Prince Edward Island. In Quebec, a modification of previous plans is also this year being put into operation by the Quebec Bureau of Statistics. Instead of the cards being issued through the rural schools as heretofore, they will be distributed by local agents under the direction of the agronomists or district agricultural representatives.

In view of the special importance of the cereal crops of the prairie provinces, it is proposed this year to give them separate precedence of compilation, with a view to publication of the estimates for wheat, oats, rye, barley, and flax, earlier than is possible when the results depend upon completion of the whole work.

Early and trustworthy estimates of the field crops of Canada are urgently required by all interests connected with the national basic industry of agriculture, including those of the elevator companies, transportation companies, bankers, insurance societies, grain merchants, millers, and a large number of other mercantile concerns, whilst such information is essential to farmers themselves, in order that they may be placed upon a level with traders in the grain markets, and not be prejudiced through ignorance of actual facts.

In connection with wheat, of which Canada is now the world's second or third largest producer, and the world's second largest exporting country, it is of the highest importance to obtain early and accurate knowledge of the world's total output, and this can only be done if Canada fail not to contribute timely statistics to the International Agricultural Institute, of which she is an adhering country.

The Bureau appeals therefore to all farmers who receive the schedule to return it duly completed without fail. Should they not receive the card by the middle of June, they should apply for one, either to their local school teacher, their local Department of Agriculture, of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics at Ottawa. Farmers are positively assured that the returns collected have no connection with taxation. The officers of the Bureau are all sworn to secrecy, and no individual returns are divulged, the estimates based upon the added totals alone being published.

CANADIAN SENATOR INVENTS OIL DETECTOR

(Oil and Gas Journal, Tulsa, Okla.)

Toronto, Ont., May 14.—A wildcat test being drilled in York County, northwest of this city, is attracting special attention because the location was made "by aid of an electric magnetic oil and gas detector" invented by Senator Edward Michener, of Red Deer, Alta. The test is one of seven being made in Ontario by the R. I. Henderson interests. It is on Lot 2, Concession 3, Vaughn Township, carried to 1,635 feet with a small flow of gas but no oil, and now on the top of the Trenton limestone.

The Michener device, when tested near the location, is reported to have "evinced such remarkable agitation that both the inventor and the operators were confident oil existed." A previous test with the device near Bronte developed a little gas but no oil. The "detector" consists of an electrically charged hollow iron core containing a small quantity of the material sought—oil, gasoline or gas. This core is placed in a small cylindrical nickeled-metal covering, which is suspended between two wire arms equipped with handles. It is claimed that when the operator holds the device above a given quantity of oil or gasoline the machine revolves a definite number of times; and that experiment and calculation have enabled the inventor to determine the amount of gasoline in any underground tank within a few barrels. Experiments, said to have substantiated the inventor's claim, have been made in a number of Toronto garages. When tested at the present well site, the device, loaded with gasoline, is said to have made over 200 revolutions, indicating, it was said, the existence of a large quantity of volatile oil.

BOY'S NARROW ESCAPE

Drops Fifty-Four Feet Down Slender Shaft, but Emerges Alive

Stettler, Alta., May 31.—While drilling a well near Erskine, Peter Welsh, aged fifteen, met with a serious accident that might have resulted fatally. He was being pulled up out of the hole and just as he got to the top he said, "I am slipping," and before assistance could be given him he lost his hold on the rope and fell fifty-four feet to the bottom of the well.

As the opening is only sixteen inches in diameter, those at the top could only lower the rope and trust to Welsh being able to tie the rope around himself. This he evidently accomplished and after being hauled to safety it was discovered one leg was broken at the thigh and the other at the ankle. Dr. Creighton set the legs and the patient is progressing as well as can be expected.

HAYNES

Duncan Gray spent a few days at home last week, and has gone on to Shelby, Montana, to help get ready for the big fight.

After a 200-mile trip on his horse, Tommy Parkinson got back within a mile of Haynes when his pony stumbled, threw him, and Tommy is now laid up with a broken leg.

Gladys Sage is recovering from an attack of the measles.

Everybody that could get away went picknicking on the 24th, but the fishing was scarce.

Mr. Roy Bucknell is home from the north country, and reports things looking well.

Mrs. Mary Phillips is up from Calgary renewing acquaintances and visiting old friends.

The farmers are all wearing a pleasant smile after the welcome showers.

Friday night sports at Satinwood are almost as popular as the Literary. Basketball, baseball and football drew quite a crowd last week, and the young folks are trying to make up some good teams.

Mcas-Brittain

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride last Tuesday morning, May 22, between Mr. J. G. Moss, of Lomond, Alta., and Miss Evelyn Mary Brittain, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Brittain, of Ardley. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. J. Whelan, Delburne, and Mr. Edwin Allison, cousin of the bride, who presided at the piano, played the Wedding March as the bride entered.

The bride, who was prettily attired in white crepe de chene and veil, was given away by her father, and she carried a bouquet of pink roses, carnations and maidenhair fern. She was attended by her sister, Florence Margaret Brittain, and her brother, Mr. Roland Brittain acted as best man. The ceremony being over, a most delicious wedding dinner was served at which all enjoyed themselves, after which the happy pair left for Calgary.

On Saturday evening previous, the good neighbors and friends of the community gave a surprise shower at the home of the bride, all showing their good will by attending, and their best wishes by the liberal giving of beautiful presents. Mrs. Herbert Hampton acted as hostess. Among the gifts was a quilt given by the local U.F.W.A. After spending an enjoyable evening, lunch and coffee was served by a number of the ladies present. The bride and her parents wish to thank all for their kindness and good will.

DAIRY OPTIMISM

The demand for dairy products has never been better than the past year, comments Hoard's Dairyman. One of the most encouraging things in agriculture is that dairy products are selling on a basis nearly comparable with the average selling prices of other commodities. The dairy market is in a healthy condition. There is no surplus butter, cheese, powdered milk, or condensed milk. This condition should lead the dairy farmers to cheer up and take a new vision of their business; it should encourage them to lay plans to make dairying more profitable and themselves more efficient dairymen.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 6th, 1923.

THE KING'S BIRTHDAY

On the 3rd of June fell the birthday of His Majesty the King. The time has passed, at least temporarily, when any serious adherence is given to the doctrine of the divine right of kings and of absolute monarchy. Yet probably there has not yet been a time when the people of Great Britain and the whole Empire were so well satisfied with the form of their government, or so well disposed to the reigning King and Queen and the members of their family. The numbers of people in the Empire who seriously entertain republican principles must be exceedingly small. Our present system of government is entirely free, simple and efficient in its working, and infinitely cheaper than the average republican government. Only one thinks of the upheaval which takes place in the United States every four-years on the election of a president, when vast sums of money are wasted on the election, when for months previously all business is in a state of semi-paralysis pending the decision, one can be thankful that we of the Empire still live under a monarchy. Moreover, our monarchy forms a most useful kind of binding link between the various sections of the Empire, now attaining to the rank of equal nations within that Empire. For our present King and Queen there is an exceedingly high level of general admiration and respect. It is felt that they have set the nation and the Empire an example both in peace and war, of fluiet, unremitting attention to duty, and the social influence of their court has been and is wholly for good. Loyalty to the King is mainly a matter of sentiment, and in a world where most material interests are apt to count too high, the old sentiment of unselfish loyalty is of undiminished value.

SANCTUARY WOOD AND THE SECOND OF JUNE

On the second of this month fell the anniversary of what is officially known as the Battle of Mount Sorel, but which is usually referred to by Canadians as the Battle of Sanctuary Wood or the Second of June. It was fought in 1916 and was not one of the great or decisive battles of the war in the sense that St. Julian or Vimy Ridge were, but it has perhaps a special importance for Canadians both because the losses suffered were very heavy and because the brunt of the battle both the original German attack and the successful counter-attack, ten days later, was borne almost if not entirely, by the Canadian Corps. It is also notable as being the first instance in the war of the concentrated or intensive artillery bombardment of a limited area. On in the small section of the Canadian front between Hooge and Sanctuary Wood an enormous weight of artillery fire was suddenly poured, the line was broken, and the German advance made the position in the whole salient of Ypres even more precarious than before. Yet the broken regiments and their reserves held on to a new line, the German advance was stopped, and ten days after a well-organized counter-attack recovered practically the whole of the lost positions. We publish in this issue an account of the early part of the battle by a survivor. Many Red Deer men took part in it and several gave their lives in it.

RAIN AND PESSIMISM

A few weeks ago the prevailing feeling in Alberta and the West generally was one of no little pessimism. The drought of recent years, the consequent comparative failures of crops and difficulties with water supplies for stock and households, the general business depression following the war —all were combined to create a feeling of something like despair. There was talk of abandoned farms, of wholesale emigration to the States, of public and private bankruptcy. It seemed as if our people were losing heart.

The recent plentiful rains over the whole West, and particularly in the drought-haunted South, have wrought a complete change in the situation. It is too early yet to say that big crops are assured, but at least the prospects are exceedingly good, and with the prospects of a big crop all round, hope generally has revived, and cheerfulness is taking the place of gloom.

Perhaps it was inevitable that the gloom should have existed before the rain came. Many of our people are new to the West. They have much reserve of capital to fall back on in case of failures. To such people two or three bad years in succession are exceedingly serious financially, and also unduly discouraging. Those who have been long in the country know that it had had these very spells before, and that they have passed away before copious rains. No country is exempt from periods of seeming arrest to its progress. As a matter of fact, the general growth of the West has been exceedingly rapid. As compared with the roadless, almost trackless, swampy desert of forty years ago, the present position is marvellous.

The future, too, is really a bright one. Our farm lands are relatively cheap in price and excellent in quality. Our coal supply is enormous, and the demand for it outside of the West itself is increasing. Sooner or later the position of freights will be solved so as to allow Eastern Canada to take our coal. Other minerals, too, are certainly in existence and will be developed in time. Immigration will resume the former flow and the present loss by emigration will cease with the first good crop. Those who are now making for the States will be coming back again, thankful that they have Canada to come back to. Those who stay here and fight their way through the years of depression should reap the benefit of the return of prosperity. It is a mistake to be foolishly over-sanguine. There has been a tendency at times among us to refuse to recognize unpleasant facts, but it is also a mistake to take too short a view of things and to believe that a few bad years are conclusive proof of permanent failure in the fertility of the country. There is no such failure. The seed time of hope and the harvest time of realization will continue among us. Let us take heart and go forward.

THE QUESTION OF DIVORCE

The next aspect from which this question falls to be viewed is that of public policy. Here the teaching of history falls to be considered, and its lesson is clear. A lax marriage law and law marriage customs are fatal to a nation. In the early days of Rome the marriage law as interpreted by public opinion and custom made divorce a most serious matter. The law gave almost unfettered discretion to the husband, but custom and public opinion restricted the exercise of that discretion to cases of the gravest offences. As time went on and the standard of Roman morals declined from its early high estate, the restraint of public opinion weakened and the Roman law of marriage and divorce became lax to an extreme extent. It became in fact, as it always has been in theory, divorce by consent. It might even be called divorce by caprice. The effect on the home life of the people was utterly bad. The Roman family so notable in its early history for its stern simplicity and discipline, became neither simple nor disciplined, and moreover there appeared speedily that invariable accompaniment of the degeneration or home life—infanticide and race suicide. Not even Christianity, in the early flush of its faith and enthusiasm availed to check that fatal development, which ended in Roman generals and emperors being drawn from outlying and foreign parts of the Empire like Spain and Africa, and Roman armies being composed mainly of those who were not Romans. There is one great lesson from history.

The case of modern France is another. The French marriage law is exceedingly lax. Divorce is easy and common. French home life has declined as an inevitable result. The French birth-rate has fallen till now the annual number of deaths exceeds that of births, and the French race is dying. That one fact alone explained the necessity for the British army supporting the French against the Germans, and for the large number of black troops which the French had to use in the war. That one fact is the crucial problem of Europe today, for it is the decline in her population that makes the French nation so terrified of a fresh German attack, and it is the decline of her home life caused largely by lax marriage laws, that is responsible for her failing population.

Exactly the same holds good of Anglo-Saxon America. The old New England stock is said to be rapidly dying out, and all over the States the parent Anglo-Saxon stock is losing ground, and is doing so because a lax marriage law panders to the love of luxury and pleasure and the shirking of responsibility. It is to the credit of the Roman Catholic Church that it has always set its face resolutely against this decay of home life, and it is significant that the fact that the birth-rate is less among Roman Catholics than among Protestants.

Obviously, a nation whose home life declines, whose numbers do not increase, or even decrease, cannot hold its own against other and healthier nations. Further, the children of such a nation, lacking often the advantage of sound home training, are apt to grow up selfish, undisciplined, engrossed in pleasure only, and unlikely to make good citizens. It is an old story that no training can equal good home training. If a child loses that, it loses what it can never get elsewhere. It comes to this: that if families are being constantly broken up by divorce, the nation will have few children, and those few will be of inferior quality. This does not go to show that all divorce should be forbidden by law in the interests of public policy, for if sound home life is the strength of a nation, then the keeping together under all conceivable circumstances of people who cannot possibly make a happy home together, is highly undesirable. It does, however, go to show what has been suggested from other points of view: that the marriage laws of a country should be most carefully guarded so as to preserve to the utmost the general sanctity of marriage and home life, and yet not to refuse relief to an innocent party in cases where the continuance of a marriage offers no prospect of the maintenance of a healthy home.

EDITORIAL NOTES

In the Rocky Mountain House Gazette there appears an account of a Justice of the Peace there who held himself out as having authority to perform, and did in fact perform, it is claimed, the marriage ceremony between two residents of a nearby settlement. The couple left on a honeymoon believing themselves lawfully married.

It was, of course, a mistake on the part of the Justice, and probably he now realizes as well as anyone what a ghastly mistake it may turn out to be. The editor of the Gazette is to be highly commended for his stand in the matter, and we shall be glad to see some action taken by the authorities to correct the Justice of the Peace for his unlawful action.

Last week, John H. Beeley, Justice of the Peace at Rimbey, was taken before another Justice on the charge of using vile language and creating a disturbance on the street.

We know of a case, being present at the trial, where a party at Leedale was found guilty of theft, and the reasons given by the presiding justice were that his partner had done the stealing, and hence he must be guilty.

Is it not time that Justices of the Peace be chosen only after the applicants for the positions show some knowledge of the laws of the country?

At the Empire Day exercises, the children listened to a message from the King and Queen. It was not the first time they had heard such messages, but hitherto they have been in printed form and were read by the chairman or some other person. How much more the message must have meant to them when they heard their Majesty's voices on the gramaphone. Probably the King and Queen became real persons to many of the children for the first time.

WEEKLY NEWS BULLETIN

(Issued by Publicity Commissioner, Government Buildings, Edmonton)

The Produce Merchants' Act

Dealers and merchants who come within the scope of the above Act are reminded that licenses should be taken out promptly. The license year runs from the first of May until the 30th of April following. Application forms and licenses can be obtained from the Department of Agriculture, Edmonton. Those subject to the provisions of the Act are dealers in any agricultural product or farm produce, including cattle, sheep, swine, poultry, eggs, vegetables, fruits, butter and butterfat, milk, live stock feeds and hides. The Act does not apply to any person bonded under the Canada Grain Act, or The Live Stock and Live Stock Products Act, nor to any retail merchant in respect of the transaction of his ordinary business.

Addresses Women's Canadian Club

On Monday afternoon Hon. Mrs. Parlby, minister without portfolio in the Alberta Government, addressed a large gathering of the members of the Women's Canadian Club at the Macdonald, Edmonton, at an afternoon tea. Mrs. Parlby spoke on the development of a national spirit in Canada, and gave a splendid and patriotic address, which was interestingly received by the ladies present. In the motion conveying a vote of thanks to one of the speakers expressed the opinion "that in Hon. Irene Parlby the farmers have a wonderful representative."

Northern Navigation

The Dominion Department of Marine and Fisheries is this spring placing navigation aids in the northern rivers and in Lake Athabasca. White flags, gong buoys, spar buoys, and barrel buoys are being placed to indicate the channels.

Canadian Cattle in Britain

Prof. W. L. Carlyle, manager of the Prince of Wales ranch at Rich River, has returned from a trip to the Old Country, and has brought with him some high bred horses, cattle and sheep with which to stock the prince's ranch. Included in the first shipment is Will Somers, of the stables of King George, one of the best known and most consistent winners on British race courses of recent years.

Prof. Carlyle speaks encouragingly of the British market for Canadian stocker cattle, and says the British importer demands well-bred stock, and advises Canadian breeders and ranchers to pay more attention to breeding what the British market requirements call for.

Special Rate on Wool

The Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers, Ltd., which has a large membership among Alberta sheepmen, advise from Toronto that a special freight rate on carloads of wool from Western Canada has been secured. This special commodity rate from Calgary, Edmonton and Lacombe to Weston, Ont., is $1.81, and from Lethbridge $1.72. This is about 20 cents under the regular 5th class rate.

Alberta Press Association

The annual meeting of the Alberta Press Association will be held at Jasper Park on June 7, 8 and 9. The principal speakers at this convention will be W. A. Buchanan, Lethbridge; Dean Spencer, of the School of Journalism, Washington; Col. Porter and Geo. H. Saults, of Winnipeg.

Egg and Poultry Marketing Service

Farmers throughout Southern Alberta heavily approve of the opening at Lethbridge by the Department of Agriculture of a branch of the Egg and Poultry Marketing Service. The branches of this service at Edmonton and Calgary have been very successful, and have proved a great help to farmers and poultrymen.

Potatoes Marketed Co-operatively

The surplus potatoes in the Lethbridge district were pretty well cleaned up last week. Five carloads were marketed co-operatively, one car each being shipped from Magrath, Welling, Lethbridge, Granum and Claresholm. The price paid the farmers was $12.50 per ton f.o.b. cars, and this was considered fairly satisfactory.

Bitumen Development

The McMurray Asphalt & Oils, Ltd., are making progress with their plant at Waterways. A carload of new machinery was sent in early in the spring and other shipments of machinery are on the way. A railway siding is being built into the works. For the present this company will concentrate its efforts on the crude products of bitumen and fuel oils, and expects to produce bitumen in commercial quantities for street paving and road-making purposes at an early date.

Alberta Women's Institutes

The annual gathering of the members of the Alberta Women's Institutes took place last week at the University, Edmonton, this week. An idea of the scope of the work was gleaned from the report of Miss Jessie McMillan, superintendent. In 1922 the total attendance at all short courses arranged through this medium was 5801, and the total attendance at short courses and lectures and demonstrations 15,599. Three hundred and twenty-five places were visited and 696 meetings held. Two short courses on foods and cookery and twelve demonstration lectures were given. The sewing short courses numbered 26, and the demonstration lectures 392. One handicraft course and six demonstration lectures on handicrafts were given.

The number of women's institutes which have applied for the grant is 231, and on their application forms they give their financial returns as $66,332.87. According to the proportional subscription for the 231 institutes it is estimated that the 282 institutes would have represented $80,907.80.

1922 was a rather trying year on a number of the institutes, but in spite of this the general condition shown is very satisfactory.

On Tuesday evening Hon. Geo. Hoadley, Minister of Agriculture, addressed the institute meeting. He pointed out how the W.I. could be a tremendous power for good by working through the medium of good homes and also through their organization. He urged the institutes to consider the question of becoming self-supporting and doing without the government grants. He reviewed several phases of the problems and work of the government and pointed out where the W.I. could be of assistance in endeavoring to build up the country in the highest sense, and in building up a more useful and contented citizenship in Alberta.

Mrs. J. N. Beaubier, of Champion, was re-elected president, and Mrs. A. H. Rogers, of Fort Saskatchewan, was re-elected Secretary.

WORLD'S RICHEST MEN

Only on one thing is there general agreement about Henry Ford; he is the richest man in the world. Perhaps there never was such a rich man with the exception of John D. Rockefeller, who has given away half a billion dollars and is supposed to have nearly as much left. Despite his gifts, which never before were equalled or approached by a philanthropist, John D. Rockefeller is reckoned the second richest man. A writer in the New York Times, after making enquiry among men likely to be well informed, compiles the list of the richest ten men, which places Ford first and Rockefller second, and eight others as follows: The Duke of Westminster, $150,000,000 to $200,000,000; Sir Basil Zaharoff, $100,000,000 to $125,000,000; Hugo Stinnes, $100,000,000; Percy Rockefeller, $100,000,000; Baron H. Mitsui, $100,000,000; Baron K. Iwasaki, $100,000,000; J. B. Duke, $100,000,000; George F. Baker, $100,000,000; the Gaekwar of Baroda, $125,000,000; T. B. Walker, perhaps less than $100,000,000; perhaps as high as $300,000,000.

Here and There

Each acre of corn grown in Ohio costs on an average 46.26 hours of labor.

Canada is now second on the list as an exporting land, the per capita being $100.63 per annum.

A new station is being built by the Canadian Pacific Railway at Fredericton at a cost of $50,000.

Half a million Canadians look to the forests each day for their meals and lodging, and more than 100,000 Canadian workmen are engaged in converting forest products into one form or another.

The large party of Hebrideans who were brought to Canada on the Canadian Pacific Steamships "Metagama" and "Marloch" have gone to Red Deer, Alta., where they will form an agricultural colony.

Seven hundred farmers and farm laborers arrived in Canada recently on the Canadian Pacific steamer "Montcalm." These colonists are proceeding to Ontario and western points where they will take up farm work.

The project of a ship canal across Scotland from the Clyde to the Firth of Forth was brought to the fore again at a recent meeting of the Mid-Scotland Ship Canal Association, and there is a possibility of something being started in this connection in the near future.

A single pair of potato bugs would, without check, increase to 60,000,000 in one season; the hop aphis, developing thirteen generations in a single year would, if unchecked by the end of the twelfth generation, have multiplied to ten sextillions.

Canadian air pilots flew 294,449 miles carrying 9,153 passengers and 77,850 pounds of freight in 1922, according to a report of the Canadian Air Board. Saskatchewan pilots led in the Dominion, carrying 3,022 passengers. Manitoba pilots carried 1,622 people, and British Columbia pilots 1,122.

A company has been formed in London to exploit sunken treasure in Navarin Bay, off the west coast of Greece. The promoters state that there is a matter of $45,000,000 in bullion and other forms still at the bottom of the Bay, where it was sunk with the united fleets of Egypt and Turkey by the united British, French and Russian fleets in 1827.

Last summer 4,000 forest fires cleared away at least ten times as many trees as were cut down for lumber, pulp and paper, and all other industries combined. A very large percentage of the fires were caused by careless campers and sportsmen who "thought it would die out" or cast away a lighted match or cigarette end.

Improvement of camping facilities at Banff for automobile tourists is now being made. The Mount Tundle camp site is being improved and enlarged, and will be equipped with all modern appliances. It is expected that as a result of the opening of the Banff-Windermere road this year, the tourist traffic through Banff will be the heaviest ever recorded.

At the annual meeting of the Canadian Pacific Railway, President Beatty pointed out that prospects for the immigration into Canada of the class of colonist urgently needed to develop the country's natural resources were much brighter than they had been in the past two or three years, and an increased traffic from Great Britain and Northern Europe was indicated by the largely increased western movement on the company's ships during the past four months of this year.

THIS POET WAS CRAZY

There is a farmer who is YY
Enough to take his EE,

He hears the chatter of the JJ

And sees that when a tree DKK
It makes a home for BB.

RED DEER BAND RE-ORGANIZED

At the annual meeting of the Red Deer Citizens' Band on Wednesday evening in the City Hall, the main discussion was over the possibility of having a band this year, which was thoroughly gone into, and if it had not been for the enthusiasm shown by a number of the younger members of the organization, there might not have been any attempt made to re-organize for the year. However, it was finally decided to try and carry on the work if at all possible.

The following officers were then elected for the ensuing year:—

Hon. President—Mr. J. A. Carswell
Hon. Vice-President—Dr. W. J. MacKenzie.
President—E. Haste
Secretary-Treasurer—W. J. Evans
Executive—The President, Secretary-Treasurer, Ted. Gaetz, D. Murphy, G. M. England.
Property Committee—The President and Lee Searancke.
Librarian—Lee Searancke.
Auditor—S. Jones

The appointing of a Bandmaster was left over to a future meeting.

Band practice will be held Wednesday evening, when it is expected that all members of the band, or any new men will turn out in force.

If a position could be secured, the band would have no trouble in getting a leader. If you know of anything, phone the Secretary.

LOCAL J.P. PERFORMS MARRIAGE CEREMONY

(Rocky Mountain House Gazette)

"Wm. W. Murray and Josie M. Scott, both of Dovercourt, came into the village Monday and secured a license from marriage licenses issuer W. J. Kirby. The local minister, Rev. G. W. McKechnie, being away, the young people were in a quandary. Finally, late in the afternoon, they called at the residence of H. C. Titford, J.P., who obligingly performed the ceremony.

"There is nothing in the Marriage Ordinance which gives power to a J.P. to perform the marriage ceremony, and the marriage is not a marriage, although the principals are enjoying their honeymoon, believing themselves joined in holy wedlock.

"Absolutely no blame can be attached to the young folks, but there is considerable ill feeling in the community over the affair, indignation being freely expressed that a man filling so important a position should so far exceed his authority as to perform such a sacred ceremony in perfect ignorance that he has no such power.

"It is a reflection on the calibre of appointments being made in this section of the province."

FLOODS IN SOUTH

SCORES OF LIVESTOCK HAVE BEEN DROWNED

Calgary, June 1.—Sheep creek at Okotoks and the Highwood river nearby had risen eight feet Thursday. Serious flood conditions are threatened. Heavy rains are reported in all of southern Alberta.

Torrential rains, accompanied by thunder and lightning, were reported at Lethbridge. It is feared that the Belly river will flood.

Lethbridge reports two hundred homeless at Bellevue.

Scores or livestock have been drowned throughout the south country.

Miners' union officials are handling relief work in the Pass districts.

The Elbow river in Calgary has risen three feet during the past 24 hours, and at 3 o'clock this morning was rising at the rate of one and a half inches an hour.

Elbow Park residents are somewhat alarmed.

Heavy rains were general over the southern, eastern and western parts of the province yesterday afternoon and evening, while the rains north of Calgary to Red Deer and towns beyond were lighter, according to long distance telephonic and telegraphic reports gathered by the Morning Albertan last night.

There were exceptional heavy rains at Medicine Hat, accompanied by a heavy electric storm, which lasted haft the night.

The total precipitation yesterday was one and one-fifth inches, according to information received from the local branch of the dominion meteorological bureau.

It was still raining at 3 o'clock this morning in Calgary.

RED DEER CHAUTAUQUA JUNE 25 TO 30

A Strong Programme of Instruction, Inspiration, Entertainment and Music

This year the Chautauqua programme for the western six day circuit is undoubtedly the finest ever presented in Western Canada. The great principle upon which it is built is the sincere desire to meet the varied needs of the country. This programme will inspire, instruct, inform and will make people feel that, despite all that discourages, life is big and well worth while.

The programme may be divided into two parts—one of music of every kind of instrument, of every variety of human voice, rendered by some of the finest artists in the musical world—the other, lectures on current topics by world-recognized thinkers and foremost speakers.

Mr. Daniel Fox leads this great week of educational culture with his lecture "The Mission of the Anglo-Saxon"—a soul-stirring talk, that cannot help but find response in the heart of every Anglo-Saxon.

Dr. Frederick Poole, too, has a thrilling story for every Britisher, depicting vividly how Great Britain recovered the Holy Land from the Turks. This lecture is illustrated with many exquisite hand-colored views. No one should miss hearing Dr. Poole tell "With Allenby in Palestine" and "Lawrence in Arabia."

Mrs. Marie Varney, B.D., a distinguished British woman lecturer, comes fresh from Europe where she has been making surveys of current problems in England, France and Germany, and will tell the result of her observations.

Sam Gaithwell has a virile challenging optimistic lecture called "Getting by Your Hoodoo"—a lecture of a booster and an optimist.

Mr. Arthur Carpenter, who has distinguished himself as a scientist who can interest the people in the wonders of the universe, will deliver his celebrated lecture on the "Greatness of God." His language is the language of the every-day man.

Then there is the music part of the week's programme—this is commenced by the Cheney Concert Company, a splendid chamber music group on violin, piano and 'cello, which, with the famous White House organ chimes, will give a distinctive musical programme.

The Calgary Kiddies of the McDonald Academy of Fine Arts at Calgary, eight well-trained and clever children, will put on an elaborate spectacular musical revue, during which they will take the audience on a trip around the world, and you will hear the national songs, and see the national dances of other lands. Over a thousand dollars alone has been expended on the costumes of this "Made in Alberta" Revue.

The Fletcheli Yodlers come direct from Switzerland. They are the finest company of Alpine yodlers that have ever appeared on this continent, and they present an evening's entertainment of mountain yodling, songs and calls, to the accompaniment of the national musical instrument of Switzerland, the zither. These mountain songs will be intermingled with soprano, basso and contralto solos, mandoline and guitar numbers.

The Going-Epperson-Boll Company is a trio of three talented young women, who render solos, duets, readings and the whistles and calls of birds—a programme of the highest order.

The Florenz Orchestral Quartette consists of four clever wide-awake young artists, brimful of personality, who have combined their talents into a very fine concert orchestra of two violins, cello and piano. Vocal ensemble work, and dramatic readings are interspersed with the orchestral numbers in making—wherever they go—a very popular programme.

On the last evening there is a magnificent opera company under the direction of Grant Hadley. This company consists of seven people who will make up the strongest opera company that has ever been on the Chautauqua. This will give a programme so very varied in character that it will appeal to everybody in the community.

Father-in-law: "So you are beginning to find that married life has its troubles?"

Daughter-in-law: "Well, yes. Jack sometimes simply won't listen to reason."

Father-in-law: "Young rascal. He ought to be ashamed of himself. It isn't every married man has the chance."

PRAYER AND POTATOES

An old lady sat in her old arm-chair,
With wrinkled visage and dishevelled hair,
And hunger worn features;
For days and for weeks her only fare,
As she sat there in her old arm-chair
Had been potatoes.

But now they were gone for bad or good,
Not one was left for the lady's food
Of these potatoes.
And she sighed and said, "What shall I do?
Where shall I send, or to whom shall I go
For more potatoes?"

And she thought of the deacon across the way
The deacon so ready to worship and pray,
Whose cellar is full of potatoes.
And she said, "I will send for the deacon to come
He'll not mind much to give me some
Of such a store of potatoes."

And the deacon came over as fast as he could,
Thinking to do the old lady some good,
But never once thought of potatoes.
He asked her at once what was her chief want,
And she, poor soul, expecting a grant,
Immediately answered "Potatoes."

The deacon's religion did not lie that way,
He was more accustomed to preach and to pray
Than to give of his hoarded potatoes.
So not hearing, of course, what the old lady said,
He rose to pray with uncovered head,
But she only thought of potatoes.

He prayed for patience and wisdom and grace,
But when he prayed, "Lord, give her peace,"
She audibly sighed, "Give potatoes."
At the end of each prayer which he said,
He heard or he thought he heard in its stead
The same request for potatoes.

The deacon was troubled, and knew not what to do,
'Twas very embarrassing to have her act so
About those carnal potatoes.
So ending his prayer he started for home,
But as the door closed he heard a deep groan,
"Oh, give to the hungry, potatoes!"

And that groan followed him all the way home,
In the midst of the night it haunted his room
"Oh, give to the hungry, potatoes."
He could bear it no longer; arose and dressed,
From his well-filled cellar taking in haste
A bag of his best potatoes.

Again he went to the widow's lone hut,
Her sleepless eye she had not yet shut,
But there she sat in that old armchair
With the same wan features, the same sad air,
And entering in he poured on the floor
A bushel or more from his goodly store
Of choice potatoes.

The widow's heart leaping up for joy,
Her face was haggard no more.
"Now," said the deacon, "shall we pray?"
"Yes," said the widow, "now you may."
And he kneeled himself down on the sanded floor
Where he had poured his goodly store.

And such a prayer the deacon prayed
As never before his lips essayed;
No longer embarrassed but free and full
He poured out the voice of a liberal soul,
And the widow resounded a loud "Amen!"
But said no more of potatoes.

And would you, who hear this simple tale,
Pray for the poor,and praying prevail?
Then preface your prayer with alms and good deeds,
Search out the poor, their wants and their needs,
Pray for peace and grace and spiritual food,
For wisdom and guidance—for all these are good—
But don't forget the potatoes!

WHY THE HEN CACKLES

The accepted explanation of the cackling in which a hen indulges after laying an egg is that she is so pleased that she wants everyone to know it.

The rooster answers the cackle with a crow, and this is taken as further indication that both are immensely proud of the achievement. This explanation is not tenable.

If the question is considered fairly, it is easy to see that instinct would teach the hen that to cackle is to call the attention of the enemy to both herself and her embryo offspring, which she would naturally avoid doing.

The cackle is a relic of bygone days, when fowls were not domesticated and ran about wild. When the hen wished to lay she retired from the rest of the fowl community and performed the task.

By the time she was ready to rejoin the commonwealth the other members had wandered some distance, and she did not know where they were. She waited until she had gone some distance from the egg in order not to endanger it, and then cackled, after also having taken a good look round to assure herself that no enemies were near.

The rooster, hearing the cackle, answered it by a crow, and thus informed the hen of the whereabouts of the tribe. This sort of thing may be seen now among the ancestors of our domestic fowl in the Malay countries and India.

Jones—Are you sure your wife knows I'm going home to dinner with you?

Brown—Knows! Well, rather! Why, my dear fellow, I argued with her about it this morning for nearly half an hour.

"You must ask father's consent."

"But is that necessary? You have promised to marry me."

"I'll marry you, all right, but George, dear, you must go to father. It pleases him once in a while to know that we still consider him as one of the family."

WIND UP OF UNITED IRISH LEAGUE

The United Irish League, which for forty years has controlled the Irish vote in Great Britain, held its winding-up convention at Leeds on May 19.

With the establishment of the Free State, the League sees its purpose accomplished. T. P. O'Connor presided and Joseph Devlin was unable to attend, being ill at Belfast with pneumonia.

The first business of the convention was a resolution dissolving the League. A resolution was put, pledging the Irish in Great Britain to support in every way the liberties bestowed upon Ireland by recent legislation and to work in every way for the removal of the partition and the reuniting of the Irish people.

The following questions were voted on by the meeting:

1. Shall there be an organization of Irish in Great Britain?
2. Shall the organization, if formed, be non-sectarian?
3. Shall it be political?
4. What shall be its name?

KEEP IN STEP

THE time has come when the local publisher is expected to deliver printing equal to the best produced in in the larger centres. This is the logical outcome of the extensive propaganda that has been carried on by trade papers, advertising clubs and direct mail associations. The local merchant is being educated up to the value of good printing. The same thing applies to newspapers.

We are keeping abreast of the times and all work entrusted to The News will be done in a neat, thorough and business-like manner.

As well as these remarkable chimes their programme will consist of violin, cello, piano and vocal ensemble numbers and duets and trios of the various instruments. The Cheney Company have had years of experience in building up programmes for Chautauqua. They have constantly met with popular approval and have achieved brilliant and repeated success. No one should fail to hear this distinguished company of artists.

SUGGESTIONS FOR HOME GROUNDS

Written for the Canadian Horticultural Council by J. E. Carter, Guelph.

As one result of the wide-spread movements for outdoor improvement that have swept the country, awakening the latent civic pride of individuals, and in many cases, of entire communities, considerable progress has been made toward making our country more beautiful.

The neglected grounds of many school houses and public play grounds have been beautified, waste places reclaimed, vacant lots redeemed, back yards tidied and the home grounds generally made more attractive and livable.

As landscape gardening is an art not widely understood or appreciated, it is not at all surprising that mistakes have been made in some of these attempts to beautify. But if these efforts have been instrumental in removing the untidy, tell-tale signs from heretofore neglected, slovenly places, making the premises more pleasing and orderly in appearance, they have surely not been in vain.

It is much easier to criticize than to rectify, but a few simple suggestions as to what constitutes artistic planting, may be of some assistance in correcting, or at least modifying, the poor effects of most flagrant errors. Haphazard planting and crowding cause most of the troubles. To set out quantities of trees, shrubs, plants at random without a well defined decorative idea in mind, is bound to produce a "crazy quilt" effect that is confusing and disquieting.

As an artist first makes a study or sketch of a painting he desires to create, so the amateur landscape gardener should study carefully the possibilities of the area to be beautified, and compose a planting scheme that will be harmonious. In this working plan, aim to secure as large and unbroken a vista of velvety lawn as is possible, as this gives a restful effect of spaciousness. Effectively grouped shrubs and plants may be used to round out angles, screen off undesirable objects, and to form a kind of frame along the boundaries or division walls of fences. They should never, for good effect, be dotted promiscuously on the lawn proper, as such a method tends to dwarf or decrease the apparent size of the plot.

Plants graduated as to height—the tallest in the background—planted along the foundation of buildings soften the harsh outlines and serve as a sort of connecting link in the correlation of buildings and grounds. Stiff, formal lines in the border may be avoided by skilfully massing appropriate varieties, so that the groups dovetail in an irregular fashion. Trees, if used at all, on places of limited areas, are usually better in the background. Those that attain a large size are decidedly out of place in a planting scheme for small yards.

Even the diminutive city yard has its planting possibilities. A small patch is well sodded or sown with a high grade of lawn mixture, the resulting green sward, bordered with flowering plants and graceful vines trained to drape and screen the fence of the enclosure, will form an oasis that will prove pleasing to the eye, rest to-the nerves and a fitting recompense for all the effort put forth and for the faith implied.

SANCTUARY WOOD
2nd JUNE, 1916

Friday morning, the 2nd of June, 1916—a cloudless day of hot sunshine on the dusty cobbled roads of the Salient of Ypres. The reserve regiments of a Canadian brigade holding the line at Sanctuary Wood was loafing in its hut billets at a reserve camp three or four miles behind the line. Everyone was taking it easy. The regiment would not be going into the front line for three or four days more, and there seemed to be no prospect of any great excitement. During the morning a certain amount of gunfire was heard from the line, but the wind was in the opposite direction and there was always gunfire going on in the Salient anyhow, so nobody bothered about it.

At midday a casual rumour went round that the regiment was to fall in after lunch, but again nobody paid any special attention. Immediately after lunch, however, it was seen that the regiment was indeed falling in, and officers hastily got their knapsacks, hurriedly buttoned to pack the rest of their kit. The orders were to go to Belgian chateau, marching by platoons at intervals of 200 yards. Belgian chateau was a big white chateau of the common type, standing amongst trees about a mile behind Zillebeke Lake. There were reserve dug-outs there, so it was thought that the regiment was going up a little nearer the line. Again nobody bothered.

As the platoon marched along the road towards the chateau, it became apparent that there was more going on than usual. Stops were fairly frequent and for obvious reasons. The Germans were shelling the roads at intervals. The platoons, halted in sheltered spots, could see the shells bursting on and around the road in front and behind them, not very close certainly, but not too far away either. A heavy draft of recruits had arrived three days previously and on these men the spectacle had a somewhat mixed effect. They were distinctly alarming, but the more experienced men were apparently not excited by it, and nobody seemed to be getting hit. Before the Belgian chateau was reached, the road was abandoned, and in single file the platoons wound through the grass of the fields.

No stop was made at the Chateau. "Go on to Zillebeke" was the order. Past the Chateau it was necessary to take the road again and here things began to look more serious. A sentry stationed beside the road gave the word that platoons were to break up into groups of five men only, and move on via Krulstraat across the canal and railway to Zillebeke dug-outs. This reason for the order became apparent quickly. The road was littered with unexploded German shells. In a clump of bushes beside the road an anti-aircraft gun was spitting its shells in rapid succession at a German aeroplane wheeling in the air at an immense height, obviously watching the movements of the troops on the roads. The shells fired at it did not seem to burst anywhere near it.

Through the fields went the little groups of men. Shells burst near them from time to time, but the casualties were practically negligible. Now, however, they began to meet men coming back from the line wounded, walking cases these. The reinforcements asked if anything was happening up the line. "The —— are broken" was the reply, naming certain other regiments of the brigade. "The —— don't break" said the reinforcements, cheerfully grinning, and went on. At Zillebeke Dug-outs the companies of the regiment gathered, and at once it became known that things were critical. The Brigade was practically annihilated, as was the next brigade on its left. The 42nd regiment was said to have been mined in its trenches and largely destroyed. The Princess Pats also had suffered heavily. The line was broken. The Germans were through. A new line was being formed to meet them. The Divisional General Mercer was dead. The Brigadier was wounded and a prisoner. It was sufficiently serious. Yet there was no sign of panic or excitement visible anywhere. Wounded men in bandages were walking about, or being carried away on stretchers. Here a subaltern stood watching the arrival of the reserve regiment. He looked very dirty, very tired, and very strange, and he did not speak. He was the only officer of his whole regiment still on his feet, and he had about 41 of his men left with him.

Only on the road from Transport Farm via Shrapnel Corner to Ypres was there any sign of haste. Up and down that road the artillery limbers were galloping, and over the road the German shells were bursting—a flash of red and a puff of white smoke for the shrapnel. The limbers did not seem to pay any attention to them, though one team pulled up away down the road as if something had gone wrong. To the onlookers the horses seemed to gallop slowly; it looked as if they would have done as well at a fast trot. Somebody waved a hand as a limber dashed up to Transport Farm. "They're through all right. Well done the artillery," he said. Somebody else asked how it was that the Germans could possibly have broken through in face of all the Allied artillery in the Salient. It had been commonly said of late that the whole Salient was "lousy with guns."

Meantime an officers' conference was held. It's us for the counter-attack," was whispered at once. The colonel of the regiment had taken over the command of the brigade, so the second-in-command explained the position so far as it was known without the aid of a map. "We are to move up the communication trench by Zillebeke Lake to near Maple Copse, and from there to attack Sudkin House. The artillery will bombard it for ten minutes and then lengthen their range to keep off the Germans from reinforcing it, while we rush the place, and having got it, we are to dig in and hold on."

Before the start there was a little interval for rest and food. The Y. M. C. A. canteen in a dug-out in the bank of the lake was visited and its supplies practically cleared out. The officers of one company distributed all their available cash among their men to allow them to buy supplies, while they themselves secured a tin of pork and beans and another of pineapple, and, sitting down on the grass, made a hasty meal.

Soon the word was given to move up, and the long line of three companies (the fourth was kept in reserve) entered the communication trench just about sunset. It was very hot. The long winding trench beside the lake was crowded with the men. The ramps trenches down to the lake held dead bodies of men killed earlier in the day and put there out of the way. The Germans were firing tear-gas shells, and the air was heavy with the gas, so that the order was given first to put on gas goggles, and then gas masks (the horrible diver-helmet type then in use). Fortunately, they had not to be kept on for long. Soon the German shells began to fall in and around the trench up which the men were moving, and the cry began to go up for stretcher bearers, a cry which in most cases could not be answered. Halts were frequent, and the ordeal of standing in the crowded trench while the shells screamed and crashed all round and men were hit and darkness came steadily on, was a very trying one. Things became worse when machine gun firing down the road which the column had to cross held it up for a time, but it moved on again. The trench became more and more smashed in until it was a mere series of shell holes. Whispers went up and down of the names of men who had been killed. Many officers' nerves were already badly shaken by the ordinary trench-warfare, was caught by the concussion of a shell and flung several yards through the air. He was unwounded, but for the next 48 hours was a raving, screaming maniac.

At length there was a pause and the officers of one company were gathered in a shell hole on the edge of the wood. The German shells were coming screaming into the wood, and each time they came, one or two of those in the shell-hole flung themselves on their faces in the hope of shielding themselves from the effect of the burst. Others sat dazedly still and took their chance. The order came to go on, and the column reached the point where the second-in-command was waiting for them. The adjutant had just been killed, a young officer from Calgary, only 22 years of age. The original plan seemed to have been completely lost sight of or abandoned in the confusion. This was just as well, for it subsequently was found that Sudkin House was in Canadian hands all the time.

A company was ordered out into the open to dig in a new line. About 100 yards off was the German line marked by streams of flares going up into the night, for it was now mid-night. The air was full of the rush and snap of machine-gun bullets, but after the hours of shell-fire nobody cared about machine-guns. The company moved out and, spreading out, began to dig in. Evidently they were seen by the Germans, for a shower of variegoloured lights went up from the German line—the S.O.S. to their artillery—and in a moment came the shrapnel, fired with deadly accuracy right onto the crowding men. It seemed to paralyze them for the moment, but the officer in charge, moving up and down the line, started them digging again. So close were the shells bursting that the crash and flash of them could be felt by the men on their faces and backs. Here a youngster, hit through the back, lay moaning quietly. There a man, writhing in agony on the grass, called aloud for someone to help him. Here again a man hit in the head screamed in the darkness as he stumbled back towards the trench. From the British artillery there came seemingly scarcely any reply at all. Most of the British guns had been knocked out in the morning of that day.

The rain of shrapnel ended at last, and the officer in charge, himself lying wounded and helpless, sent a sergeant back into the trench to report the condition of things to a company commander, who came out with others and ordered the remnants of the company back into the trench, while the wounded were carried in and laid in two fairly undamaged bays of the trench.

Gray dawn came and found the trench filled with men, wounded and unwounded. The Germans were still shelling it, their shells bursting fortunately for the most part a shade beyond the trench, yet so near that the wounded men could watch them bursting among the trees over their heads. The trench stank of gunpowder. On the parapet the German machine-gun fire beat like hail, but from the trench came no reply, the order being: "Hold your fire till it is needed." Overhead and very low a German aeroplane slowly flew unmolested by anyone. The British dead lay scattered along the edge of the wood, very still, very obviously dead. There was none of the illusion of life that is sometimes talked of.

The stretcher-bearers began to arrive and to take away the wounded. Magnificently they did their heavy, slow, dangerous work, threading their way over the broken ground with shells bursting and bullets twanging all round them, careful as they went to avoid adding needlessly to the pain of the men they were carrying—a long weary way till they came to the hand-worked trolley line leading to the dressing station at Zillebeke Lake.

The dressing station was crowded. the doctor and his assistants working desperately hard. They had a cheerful word for each man who could understand. A big, red-faced sergeant of the C.A.M.C. was directing the carrying away of the wounded after the first dressing, over to Transport Farm to await the ambulances, and he shouted and swore in the best regular army style.

On the cobbles of Transport Farm the stretchers lay with the wounded on them, and outside the door in the early morning sunshine the red-faced sergeant walked up and down and wept aloud like a child.

The motor transports came up and were loaded with the stretchers, and started on their way to Poperinghe. On the shell-torn road they lurched and swayed and jolted, adding to the agonies of the wounded men in them, and over them as they went German shells still crashed and burst, till gradually they passed out of the zone of fire, and brought their freight from the crash and excitement and terror of the battlefield to the peace and calm, though often the pain-haunted calm, of the hospitals.

EXAMINER'S REVIEW OF PROVINCIAL MARKETS

Calgary, May 31st.

Cattle—

Beef—Calgary receipts light and a few choice heavy steers made $7.25, but choice light and heavy ones generally $7 to $7.10; good, $6.50 to $6.75; medium, $3.50 to $5; common, $2.25 to $3.25. Choice cows, $6.50 to $6; with a few topping that; good, $4.25 to $5.25; medium, $3 to $4; common, $2.50 to $3; canners, $1 to $1.50. Choice heifers up to $6.25. Bulls unchanged at $3 for tops. Calves strong at $6 to $8 for choice veal; common, $2.50 to $4.50. Feeders, Stockers—Fairly active buying of medium feeders at from $4 to $4.50; stockers, $3 to $4.10. Stock heifers, $2.25 to $3; stock cows, $1.50 to $2.50.

Beef—Finished cattle are somewhat scarce at Edmonton and prices firm, with choice heavy and light steers, $7 to $7.50; good, $6.50 to $7; medium, $5 to $6; common, $3.50 to $4.50. Choice cows, $5.50 to $6; good, $5 to $5.50; medium, $4 to $4.50; common, $3 to $3.50; canners, $1.50 to $2. Choice heifers will make up to $6.50. Bulls are unchanged, the tops selling at around $3 and a few tops over that. Calves unchanged at $7 to $8 for choice vealers and common $3 to $4. Feeders, Stockers—Feeders are not plentiful and as the eastern market appears to be lower, prices are somewhat down, with good at $4 to $4.50; stocker steers, $2.50 to $3.50. Stock cows, $1.50 to $2; heifers, $2 to $3.

Hogs—

Calgary prices started to slip the first of the week and Wednesday sales had got down to $8.50, a full bill under the previous week. Thursday price on thick smooths, $8.50.

Edmonton prices held fairly steady all week until the eastern break, when the quotation dropped, and Wednesday sales were mostly at $8.50 and the market looks weak; bacon 10 per cent premium.

Sheep—

Calgary receipts very light and quotations probably unchanged at $12.25 for top lambs; yearlings around $10 and ewes from $8.50 down.

Sheep receipts light at Edmonton, but choice lambs would bring from $12 to $13.50; yearlings $10 to $11.

Grain—

Heavy rains and showers to report from greater portion of Alberta during the week and conditions better generally than they have been for years. Grain markets decidedly lower during week and statistics indicate sufficient wheat to carry over to new crop to supply world needs without difficulty. Rallies may occur later, governed by reduced supplies and weather conditions, but very uncertain.

Butter—Butterfat—Cheese—

Creamery Butter—Cartons and prints weak at last week's price; bulk shipments lower, with specials on basis of 30c and 31c. Butterfat—Prices unchanged, but may be revised any day as production increases and surplus product has to be sold to Montreal. Prices in south unchanged, but Edmonton due for decline and southern districts may do same any day. Dairy Butter—Dealers reporting increased receipts, paying on grade 21c to 22c, 19c to 20c, and 15c to 18c on average receipts; fancy table at market stalls, 25c to 28c.

Eggs—Poultry—

Eggs—Heavy receipts of No. 2 grade caused drop in price, making payments now 19c, 13c and 10c on No. 1, No. 2 and "cracks;" candling shows about 60 percent of the eggs weak. Poultry—Receipts light but calling flocks will start soon; prices unchanged, with old hens worth around 10c to 13c.

Potatoes—

Some movement reported from different parts of country; Calgary dealers still getting requirements around $18.

Hay—

Timothy is scarce, but not sufficient demand to cause price advance; upland, No. 1, worth $13 to $16 to farmers at shipping points, not much demand for any feed.

Hides—

Markets still weak and tanners say they cannot sell leather; hide buyers cut price on green salted butchers to 6c to 7c; other hides unchanged.

Wool—

Western dealers not making many contracts yet; reports of contracts at varying prices reported in southern districts but unverified.

Furs—

Market quiet; list unchanged; some northern packs coming down to Edmonton.

SHERIFF'S SALE

Province of Alberta to Wit:

By virtue of a Writ of Execution issued out of the District Court of the District of Red Deer, at the suit of A. Sim, Plaintiff, and A. J. French, Defendant, and to me directed against the lands of the Defendant, I have seized and taken into execution the following land, namely:

The North East Quarter of Section Seven (7), Township Forty (40), Range Four (4), West of the 5th Meridian, in the Province of Alberta, excepting thereforom all mines and minerals, and containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres more or less, and subject to the taxes due or to accrue due on the said property. I am advised and verily believe that the property is not occupied at the present time; that all of the land could be placed under cultivation excepting 3 or 4 acres; a small creek runs through the proprety which would insure a good water supply; the buildings on the property are of little value; about 50 acres of the property is covered with poplar timber, not thickly but in bunches; the property is fenced with wire in a fair state of repair; there is a school on the adjoining quarter. This property is located about 5 miles North East of Lesliieville. I shall expose the said land for sale on the 18th day of June, A.D. 1923, at the Sheriff's Office, Red Deer, at the hour of 2 o'clock p.m.
